New Greek Gov't Threatens to Oppose EU's Russia Sanctions

by Will Ritter
w.ritter@eavex.com.ua

NEWS

The newly-elected leftist Greek government in Athens on Tuesday (Jan 27) complained to the EU that it was not consulted when EU Council President Donald Tusk called a Thursday (Jan 29) meeting of EU foreign ministers to discuss additional punitive moves against Moscow for supporting separatist militias in Ukraine. "Greece doesn't consent," the Athens government said in a statement, adding that the announcement violated "proper procedure" by not securing Greece's agreement in advance, Bloomberg News reported. The incoming left-wing government led by Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras is replacing a pro-European center-right government in Athens following an election held over the weekend.

COMMENTARY

Greek politics, and especially the Greek left, have a history of Russophilism and by extension, a tendency to accept the Russian narrative on matters relating to Ukraine; Greek media often portrays Ukraine's post-Euromaidan government as nationalist extremists. Greece's position on EU sanctions matters because the bloc needs unanimity from its members in approving such measures, and new Greek Foreign Minister Nikos Kotzias, a former Communist, will have the power to block additional sanctions on Russia related to Saturday's deadly attack on Mariupol civilians at Thursday's meeting. However, we suspect that a threat to derail the EU sanctions policy may merely be an initial negotiating tool of the Tsipras government in its attempt to convince the EU to write down a substantial part of Greece's sovereign debt; the country has an EU bailout program of some USD 275bn that it wants to restructure. Ironically, Kyiv is currently in a similar position to Athens in terms of asking for a haircut on its debt, and it is widely expected that Ukraine is headed for a sovereign bailout that will be in the range of USD 30bn.

PUMB Posts Net Loss of UAH 140mn for FY14

by Dmitry Churin
d.churin@eavex.com.ua

NEWS

First Ukrainian International Bank (PUMB), which is affiliated with the business group of industrialist Rinat Ahmetov, posted a net loss of UAH 140mn for FY14 (USD 9mn at the official UAH/USD exchange rate), compared to net profit of UAH 537mn in FY13, the bank reported earlier this week. Gross interest income rose by 29% YoY to UAH 4.81bn and net interest income grew by 23% YoY to UAH 2.32bn in the period. The bank's provision for loan impairment jumped by 2.6x YoY to UAH 2.7bn in 2014.

PUMB's total assets grew by 6.8% YoY to UAH 35bn (USD 2.2bn).

COMMENTARY

Although PUMB's financial results are weak, in our opinion, they would have been much worse if Mr. Akhmetov had been unable to maintain control over his industrial assets located in the Donbass war zone. According to unofficial estimates circulated in Ukrainian business newspapers, PUMB has a UAH 20bn loan portfolio exposure to Donetsk province. The bank's capital adequacy ratio was 14.2% and its current liquidity was 54% at the end of FY14. We view the released financials as NEUTRAL for PUMB's outstanding Eurobonds which were restructured in December.

PUMB-2018 Eurobonds are currently quoted at 62.0/67.0 (27.0%/24.3%).
